The Bulletin company at Norwich is getting out a calendar for this locality in the center of which is the picture of a handsome building. They've got it named Mystic High School. Of Course, if they were as well informed in Mystic matters as they ought to be, they would realize what a sad mistake they have made in calling the handsome edifice the village high school. The building ought to be the high school, however, and it's too bad we mis-cued on that a ought to be the high school, however, and it's too bad we mis-cued on that a little while ago. We came quite near to having a high school for the village, but in missing it we did away with all possibility of getting one for a long time. It will always be a sore point with us because we have no high school here, and when the point gets sore enough I presume we'll have another spasm and make one more attempt. And then some mean, two and a half ounce intellect on the east side or the west side will get his back up again and say that he won't have a high school unless it can be on his side. high school unless it can be on his side of the river. It takes all kinds of peo-ple to make a world, and there is usually a fair assortment of the short-sighted ones in the small town.

EVERY-MEMBER CANVASS ON SUNDAY, FEB. 28. Simultaneous Effort.

A joint committee consisting in each Board of Trade has made appointment case of the pastor and one delegate ongregational (Norwich Town), Third Congregational (Greeneville) and Trin-ity Methodist Episcopal met Tuesday evening at the Y. The aim is to reach as far as possible all individuals and present each with a definite oppor-tualty to share in systematic support the form of the local church or of its mis-sionary hopevolences or of both ionary benevolences or of both.

The plan, which has been fully set orth by Dr. P. J. Lerrigo and Rev. C. Merrill at the recent united mistonary conference, has been tried out i hundreds of churches cust and west, and its increase of the conference of the conferen nd its increased efficiency over older sethods amply demonstrated not only sewhere but in Norwich churches as well.

The method of operating the canvass consists in providing local bands of visitors who on the appointed day go forth, two by two, to call on the families of the parish as systematically arranged in advance. The results as indicated by the experience of the large majority of churches that have adopted the every-memory canvass are not continuous. e every-member canvass are not con med to the credit column of the hurch financial and benevolent budtots, but include a lifting of churchtoing standards and distinct spiritual gain to those who respond to the sugrestions of the canvass.

Obviously a simultaneous canvass a the part of several churches will rung increased enthuslaum, greater ef-ciency of operation and a larger pubicity, all of which should mean much or the future material and moral wel-are of the churches: The churches participating with va-
